Dear Dick,

As requested, please find attached a printout of the references contained in the EHCSS bibliography section of our www.ehcss-science.com Internet website, last updated on November 13, 2003. The section includes the following subsections:

- I. Non-clinical studies
- II. Clinical studies
- III. Iron aluminide publications or presentations
- IV. US utility patents
- V. Reports from public health groups and background information including schematic of EHCSS

The website contains references to scientific work published by external and Philip Morris scientists. References authored or co-authored by Philip Morris USA or Philip Morris USA affiliates' scientists are indicated with an asterisk (*). References are listed in alphabetical order by first author, while utility patents are listed in numerical order. Other patents (e.g., design patents) are not included in the website.

For your information, the website also contains a Methods bibliography section listing selected published or publicly presented scientific guidelines, standards and methods that relate to the assessment of the EHCSS.

Please let me know if you have any question or require further information.

Regards,

Raymond
